

Wells Fargo Hands-On Banking Senior Module September 13, 2013

Consumer Credit Counseling Foundation Inc. (CCCF) would like to announce its support of Wells Fargo's Hands-On Banking Program, which has a special module specifically for seniors. Hands-On Banking is an easy-to-use online program that is completely free of charge. Being a Wells Fargo client is not a prerequisite of the program. This financial education service will address the financial literacy challenges and unique needs facing seniors today. On September 13th CCCF participated in an online presentation that offered a first-hand look at Hands-On Banking and how it can help members of the senior community.

The senior module offers in-depth information on an impressive variety of topics including planning for retirement, social security, money management, health and long-term care, and estate planning.
